Oklahoma ancestor is seeking information or someone to correspond with regarding the two families of Frank H. Bees and Ana Kulishek. Bees was born in 1859 in Bohemia and emigrated to Iowa in 1863 along with a brother, John and a sister, Mary (Kulhavey) and his parents. Kulishek was born in 1872 in Slovika, Bohemia and emigrated to Iowa in 1875, settling near Ely, along with her parents and her brother Charles and her sister, Blanche. Kulishek also had half-siblings, the only one known being Rose (Johnson). Bees and Kulishek were married in June of 1890, possibly in Maquoketa, and spent most of their married life in Poweshiek County.

IOWA GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY

The Annual Meeting will be at Savery Hotel, Oct 2 and 3. William Dollarhide will present four sessions. Curt Witcher will speak at 2 sessions. Representative from hereditary societies will be asked to present workshops.

EARLY HISTORY

At this time, there was immense emigration from the Eastern United States pouring through Iowa to the New West, especially Nebraska, Kansas and Dakota. Realizing this situation, the General Assembly of Iowa, Appropriated $10,000 to place before the people of the East the superior advantages which the Hawkeye State had to offer. Three or four railroad companies also responded. They agreed that the good Iowa soil would be an excellent drawing card.

As this trek continued westward, the first to land in what is now Oxford township, was a Mr Strong, father of Wm Strong, who settled south of the river, in 1848, the year before John Bryan began his settlement, north of the river, in 1849. Wm Battin came next, to locate south of the river, in 1853. Geo. Rathbone and W. H. Thurston came about the same time, with Geo. Lathrop, A. A. Riley, S. Hammond, A. Courtright, W. P. Langhan, L. D. Carlton and N. P. Hagar, following soon after, prior to 1859. Bryan, W. Strong and Samuel Coon were the only inhabitants in the township, previous to 1850.

Came From Ohio

After John Bryan visited his brother, Joe Bryan, near Anamosa, he became so elated over the possibilities of the new country, that he induced his father-in-law, Levi Walston, and his family, his brother-in-law, Samuel Coon, and family, to join his own family in building a home in the "Far West". They came from Ohio by covered wagons, drawn by ox teams, visiting his brother at Anamosa, then proceeding on to the southeast. They stopped on the knoll, just west of the L. Zeller home, now occupied by Kimballs. The wagons were used first for sleeping, but when winter came, three log cabins were built. Later, another cabin was put up, further up the creek, opposite the Leffingwell farm house. This turned out to be the first school. A frame school was built soon after, close by, by Samuel Coon.

They raised corn, wheat and stock, and plowing was done with a seven-yoke ox team. The corn was fed and the wheat taken to Toronto, to be ground into flour. Hogs were taken to Davenport by ox carts, after they were killed and dressed, receiving two cents per pound in trade. Stock was also driven to Davenport. Venison, wild game and fish, comprised their main diet as beef was almost unknown. Wild fruit was plentiful, plums, strawberries and blackberries.

They had no neighbors, but peaceful, itinerant Indians, passing through, stopped at the settlement for provisions. The Indians hunted and fished along the Wapsie River and relics and objects belonging to them have been found on farms along their route.

First To Die

A little son of Mr Walston's, (Marion Clay) was the first to die, in 1850 and was interred in what later on was C D Tucker's back yard north of town. Joe Bryan's son was the first buried in the cemetery, near the edge. The first wedding took place in 1852, between Wm N. Walston and

THE CARTER HOUSE EAST OF TOWN

Sarah Waite and the first child born in the township was Emily Coon (Mrs Waite Brennehan).

The first religious service was Sunday School, held in the Bryan cabin, with Ellen Walston, teacher. Later, ministers were secured to hold services (Lutheran), first in the cabin and afterward in the frame schoolhouse.

In 1852, Miles Carter purchased 1,000 acres from Wm Bowers, thus opening up one of the largest farms in the county. It was rumored that he thought, as the north-south railroad lines would take that route to Smithtown, Monmouth and Cascade, his property would be the site of the town. With this in mind, he built the 22-room brick house, intended for a hotel. It had 11½ ft. ceilings in the high part and 9 ft. in the other. In 1925, the western part was moved to the adjoining Joseph Lasack farm, remodeled and an addition built on.

Through the efforts and influence of Geo. Lathrop, of Oxford Mills, the plans were changed and the lines routed through Oxford Mills and Oxford Junction.

The Carter farm was since owned by Ira and Jules Carter and Mr Strong, and later broken up into smaller farms. Frank Lasack, Sr., purchased the land, with the house and out buildings. His son, John Lasack, Sr., took over the farm for many years, and divided it between his sons, Joseph and Louis. Their sons, Paul and Leonard, now own the divided farms.

MR AND MRS JOHN LASACK, SR.

 MORE QUERIES ***

Seeking any information regarding the history and genealogy of the Littlefield, Williams, Doudna, Crew and Durlin families of Jones County, Delaware County, Linn County and Union County, Iowa. Charles E. Littlefield and Velina Williams (daughter of Jenry) were married in 1880 in Anamosa. The Littlefields and Durlins were from PA, and the Williams Doudna and Crew families were from Ohio.

Stephen Renouf, 871 Hanover Street,
Livermore, Calif. 94550

I am researching the name of Stuart/Stewart. They lived in Jones and Linn Counties sometime in the 1870's. I am also looking for descendants of Margaret Ellen Stuart Graham, born 7 August 1856, died 21 April 1914. Her daughters were: Elsie Hester and Jessie Allen.
